

CREATIVITY IN WRITING WITH
R.A.F.T.
(MORPHOLOGICAL FORCED CONNECTIONS)

Ummmm....not that kind of raft.

R.A.F.T.

Role: Who will your main character be?

Audience: Who are you writing to?

Format: How will you write your idea?

Topic: What will you be writing about?

A R.A.F.T. is a way to force connections between topics, ideas, characters, and events that you wouldn't normally think about. The creativity lies in how you make it all work together!

Remember, good writing takes time and planning. Make your writing detailed, well thought out, full of vivid vocabulary, and something you enjoy!

Choose one from each category to craft your writing. You don't have to have the story planned out as you make your choices. Have fun choosing and writing!

| Role          | Audience        | Format            | Topic   |
|---------------|-----------------|-------------------|---|
| Big Bad Wolf  | Red Riding Hood | Apology Letter    | Apologize for eating a family member                              |
| 3 Little Pigs | Their father    | Story             | Please let us come home!  |
| The 3 Bears   | The Kingdom     | Wanted Poster     | Reasons to throw Goldilocks in jail.                              |
| Frog Prince   | The police      | Report            | Convince a princess to kiss a slimy frogs lips.                   |
| Cinderella    | The King        | Persuasive Letter | Brings stepmother and sisters to justice for their bad treatment. |

See the following example and then choose your own combination and write!

Sample writing from a R.A.F. T.

R: Big Bad Wolf

A: The Kingdom

F: Wanted Poster

T: Throw Goldilocks in Jail

W A N T E D

---

Red Velvet Cape as Reward

---

Goldilocks, a savory innocent looking young ~~ma~~ girl was last seen squatting on the three bears territory and attempting to burn them with scalding porridge. She has been known to gain entry into your house by claiming that she is looking for her lost friend "Red." She belongs in my ~~badly~~ jail for destruction of property, attempted manslaughter, and smelling delicious.

Contact Big Bad Wolf if spotted.